MAROA BOY IS SOLDIER—Jack B. Troxell, nephew of Mrs. Minnie Nowlin of Maroa, who is in the service of his country, is shown with his wife, Betty.

PFC. RUSSELL L. GREEN, who is stationed at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Green.

Through Gasoline Rationing, It Has Enlisted for the Duration

Gasoline rationing proves that Americans will give up pleasure and convenience driving rather than defeat our efforts in supplying our fighting forces with ships, tanks and planes. Rationing has become a wartime necessity not because of scarcity of oil, but because of lack of transportation facilities.

It's easy to accept rationing as the American way of getting things done when you realize what your coupon ration book does for you: It eliminates the unfairness of a system that results in "first come, first served," and is your guarantee that you will get your share.

Even though gasoline rationing enlists your car for the duration, this does not mean it must be inactive. It's our job to tell you how to care for your car . . . to save gasoline, to save tires, to make your car outlast the Axis. Come in now for a thorough check-up!

Follow these rules for gasoline conservation!

Drive slowly and carefully. Speed and careless driving waste gasoline.

Trade rides with your neighbors. Use the car only when necessary.

Keep carburetor properly adjusted. Use hand choke sparingly.

Keep battery charged for easier starting, less choking, less gasoline consumption.

Keep tires properly inflated. A car with under-inflated tires requires more gasoline.

Have spark plugs cleaned every 5,000 miles; have distributor points checked for cleaning and adjustment.
